Reading, writing, arithmetic — and wrestling?

For Quentin Hovis, those are his foundations for success at school. So far Hovis is passing his four R's with A's.

The next wrestling test for the Seton Catholic freshman arrives this week when the Division III state tournament starts at Tim's Toyota Center in Prescott Valley. Hovis, 15, didn't take long to gain the respect of high school opponents and coaches this season, picking up the Outstanding Wrestler award at the state's premier regular season event, the Flowing Wells Invitational.

Hovis (115) moved up a division to square off against tougher opponents at Flowing Wells, where, despite being unseeded, he won his division. He beat a state champion, Sunnyside's Juaqin Olivas, in the semifinals and Chandler's Quincy Reece in the final.

"Flowing Wells was the big point of my season so far," Hovis said. "Winning that tournament and getting outstanding wrestler was great. I hope I can become a four-time champ at Flowing Wells."

At Seton Catholic, Hovis is coached by in-state wrestling pillar Eric Larkin, whose brother Evan was a four-time champ at Flowing Wells.

"Quinton is exactly the type of student we are trying to mold and grow here at Seton Catholic," Larkin said. "The kid never complains. You won't even know that he's sick if he is sick."

Hovis is "nails" in the classroom also, Larkin added.

The freshman is a straight A student despite taking three advanced classes. After high school, Hovis wants to attend the Air Force Academy and become a fighter pilot.

"He (Hovis) never grew out of that military phase all kids go through," Hovis' dad, Lee, said.

Credit partially noted author Tom Clancy for Hovis' fixation with the military.

If he's not wrestling or studying, you can often find Hovis reading a book and more often than not it's a Clancy novel. Clancy's attention to detail in his military books is what draws Hovis to his books, Hovis said.

Besides being well read, Hovis also is a well-travelled and seasoned athlete. Because of his finance job, Lee has lived in San Diego, where Hovis was born, and Hawaii.

While living in those states and Arizona, Hovis has competed in national and international tournaments in wrestling and judo. He's a former six-time junior judo national champ and competed in Mexico during the Pan American Junior Championships two years ago.

The judo has helped Hovis in wrestling, especially with his upper body moves, and helped him finish third in Greco Roman during the Asics/Vaughan Junior and Cadet National Championships in Fargo in July. He also earned a fifth place finish in freestyle to help Hovis reach All-American status at Fargo.

At Seton Catholic, Hovis is 39-1, with his only loss coming to Comb High's state champ, Ed Rico, during a dual meet. There's a small window during the year where Hovis also takes time to sharpen his boxing skills.

But even when he's boxing, you can't pry Hovis away from his books. During an amateur boxing event at a sports bar, Hovis' hands were taped up as he was reading a book before his bout.

There's no "R" in "boxing," but that didn't stop Hovis from winning his fight after putting his book down.

Winning five state titles in the past 10 seasons is great, but there's another celebration that Camp Verde wrestling coach Bob Weir is more interested in.

"Our goal is that we want to see the kids walk across that stage with their diplomas," Weir said. "For the coaches, that's our state championship. That's where the hard work and dedication pays off."

Weir will still get the chance to see his athletes graduate after this season, but this will be the last year he'll do so as Camp Verde's head coach.

The admired 21-year coach is stepping down after this week's Division IV state championship. As Camp Verde's principal, Weir's hands are already full, and he is looking forward to spending more time with his family.

But wrestling is in Weir's blood, so he is planning on being a volunteer wrestling coach next year at Camp Verde.

"Everybody is teasing me about that I'll still be running the program next year," Weir said. "But I am looking forward to spending more time with my family. I'll miss it (wrestling) dearly, but I won't miss the paperwork. I will miss the kids. That's why I got into wrestling, to be with the kids."

Camp Verde's wrestlers aren't chanting "Win one more for Weir!" during practice.

They are focused on other things, beginning with how the postponement of the wrestling sectionals will affect the likely state team favorite in D-IV.

"It's tough," said Weir about the postponement. "We are just trying to stay in shape."

Plus, teams such as St. Johns and Willcox are capable of tripping Camp Verde this year.

Last year, St. Johns was the state title favorite, but Camp Verde came out on top. Two years ago, St. Johns won out, with Camp Verde finishing as the state runner-up.

This year, Camp Verde is 24-0 despite battling through some injuries, sickness and inexperience in the heavier weight classes. The team likely starts the top wrestlers in the lower weight classes regardless of division. Camp Verde is home to Ryan Allred (145), a two-time state champ who wants to become the first four-time state champ at Camp Verde. Allred, a junior, hasn't lost since the first week of his freshman season.

"Ryan is a technician," Weir said. "He's wise, and one of the best we've ever coached. He works aggressively but is a controlled wrestler."

Camp Verde also starts three more returning state champs, Hayden Uhler (106), Alex Casillas (113) and Matt Mejia (120).

St. Johns (36-2) also is returning individual state champs, including Eli Frazier (132 pounds, 35-2 record) and Garrett Davis (35-2 record).

Sherod Bride (160) is 36-1 for St. Johns.

"If our kids wrestle to their potential, we could end up on top," St. Johns coach Brandon Crosby said.

Willcox finished its regular season with a 26-2 dual meet record and won the Gila Valley and Thatcher tournaments this season.

Willcox has seven wrestlers who have each won at least 30 matches this year, including Parker Osterman (120) and Bryce Castagna (113).

"I think it's going to be a dogfight," said Weir about this year's D-IV state team title race.

Weir's record at Camp Verde is 459-164.
